Join us in welcoming employers from:

All employers will participate in a panel discussion from 12:30 - 1:30 pm, where they will talk about their companies, job opportunities, and what they look for when hiring new employees.

Beginning at 2:00 pm, there will be come-and-go sessions for students, offering resume and cover letter help, interview tips, and other career related activities.
Bailey is a graduate student in the Higher Education and Student Personnel Masters program. She serves as the Job and Location Development Graduate Assistant for the Career Center working 1:1 with students who are searching for part-time jobs within the Oxford community. She also works with students to prepare their job application materials, such as critiquing resumes and cover letters and helping students with their interview techniques. Her favorite things about the Higher Education field is helping students find resources that benefit them in the best way.

Bailey’s biggest piece of advice she would give to students is to be open to new experiences before graduation. A part-time job or volunteer work can offer opportunities and makes candidates a lot more competitive once the job search ensues. These experiences can be in a field you’ve always been interested in without having to commit to that field by picking it up as a major is one of the best parts about getting a part-time job. If you don’t know where to begin, you can set up an appointment by calling (662) 915-7174.
